FOR GOVERNOR,

JONATHAN WORTH,

OF RANDOLPH.

When can a new Constitution go into Operation?

"Make haste slowly" is an old maxim originally written in Latin. The Convention, in the important work they have undertaken of re-casting and essentially altering the Constitution, may act wisely by its observance. It is more than questioned by many, whether the Convention had authority to do more than it had done, and was accepted at its hands by the President of the United States, in October last; and whether, if any form of constitution it may adopt and send forth shall ever become the law of the land, it will not, like the treaty of peace with Mexico at Gaudaloupe Hidalgo, owe its authority solely to its ratification by a legitimate tribunal, and not to the agency which prepared it. Whether or not this opinion be correct, we take it for granted, that the Convention will not assume to give to the State a Constitution with no other sanction than its own decree of ordination; but that its draft of a Constitution will be submitted to the people for their approval or rejection.

This being ascertained, we desire to suggest for consideration, the question whether, supposing the Constitution to be ratified by the people, it is possible to bring it into operation at the election in October, or during the present year? Supposing the Convention to adjourn by the 25th of June, what is the next step to be taken? To publish the proposed Constitution for a sufficient time to be considered and understood by all the voters of the State; not with the hurry of revolutionary proceedings, hastening to plunge a country into a war, or to rescue it out of one; but for patient and convenient scrutiny, and calm and intelligent decision.—How long should be allowed for such a canvass? In 1835, a Convention, limited to specified subjects of amendment, adjourned on the eleventh of July, and ordered the election on ratification upon the second Monday of November, ensuing. At present the whole Constitution is open to amendment, and the canvass may be expected to be the more searching, by reason of the fact that the authority of the Convention in the premises has been doubted. It would seem, therefore, that the work of the Convention may meet with some disfavor, if there be any attempt to hasten results upon matters of such moment. It appears to us, therefore, that no portion of a new Constitution can be put into practical operation much earlier than the time appointed by law for the Legislature to assemble; if so soon. And that the election in October, as now proposed, must, of necessity, be made under the Constitution as it is. Any attempt at haste, by departing from the ordinary and deliberate modes of proceeding to which the people have been accustomed, will lead to complications and jeopard the success of the appeal submitted to the popular judgment.

The plan proposed by the Convention, that the people shall ratify the Constitution in August, and make the elections under it in October, it appears to us, will not afford any thing like the time which should be allotted to the people, for the careful consideration of an amended Constitution. Organic changes, when specifically suggested by the people in advance, should be carefully and patiently considered.—If so, how much time should be given for the consideration of a Constitution, entirely rewritten, containing several important changes?

It, therefore, appears to us, that the action of the Convention should be reversed. The regular election should be held, as heretofore, in August, and the ratification of the Constitution in October.

In making this suggestion, we are influenced by no merely political motive. So far as the Convention has gone in the matter of amending the Constitution, we have no serious objection to it in itself, yet from the general tone of the people it is clear that the success of the amended Constitution is jeopardied by an early submission of it to them.

We are aware, that the present arrangement was effected, to meet in the first place the wishes of our Western friends, and secondly, to enable the majority in the Convention, who are supposed to be sympathisers with Ex. Prov. Gov. Holden, to perfect their arrangements for a political canvass against Gov. Worth. The anxieties of our Western friends were natural. They had long desired a change in the basis of representation, and, we are free to say, that we sympathise with them in their anxiety. Their desire to have a fair representation, upon the basis of population in the popular branch of the Legislature, was both natural and just, and we are ready to grant it to them now; but their anxiety has led them, we fear, to hasten an appeal to the people, at the hazard of the amended Constitution, and in so doing they have unwittingly played into the hands of a political organization, whose defeat before the people of North Carolina, must be as inevitable as the rising of the sun.

THE REMARKS of Mr. Grissom, of Granville, upon the proposition to abolish the property qualification for members of the House of Commons, are necessarily excluded to day, but shall appear to-morrow.

Hendersonville Pioneer.

We have received several numbers of this paper, published by Hon. A. H. Jones, in Henderson county, in this State. We have heretofore simply announced its publication, and, unlike some of our cotemporaries in the State, have not endorsed it. Mr. Jones is a member of the State Convention, and a member elect to Congress from the Mountain District.

Mr. Jones has not superintended, in person, the publication of his paper since it commenced, and therefore it would be ungenerous to hold him strictly responsible for what appears in it. The whole tone of its selections stamps the character of the paper as decidedly radical, of the Brownlow stripe. It has published, with favor, Brownlow's severe attack upon President Johnson, and its selections are mainly drawn from the most furious of the Radical papers.—No editorial has appeared in it, fixing decidedly its editor's status, yet its selections do unmistakably. From a letter of Mr. Jones written from Raleigh and published in the Pioneer, his real status is however fixed. He says:

"We most earnestly desire that President Johnson will so define and place himself, that we cannot mistake his position. If he is for using his influence in order to place us politically on an equal footing with those who were for prosecuting the war to the bitter end, and who were for persecuting, and did persecute, us for advocating peace and restoration, and for raising our humble voices against rebellion, we desire to know the fact. Burnt children dread the fire, and we are not willing again to see political power thrown into the hands of those who have been instrumental in our ruin; and it is natural that we should watch with a jealous eye those who affiliate with, and court the political influence of those whom we fear to trust. We hope and believe that the President will, at an early day, have an opportunity to give an expression that will clear all doubts as to his political sympathies."

Now, it appears palpable, that the President has so defined his position—so firmly and unequivocally asserted his principles and policy, that fair-minded, liberal men have no doubt as to their meaning. The Radicals everywhere talk and act as if they thought he meant a good deal he does not say. The wish is no doubt father to the thought. The President's real friends have no doubt about the meaning of his utterances. They are too unmistakably plain for that. If any anxiety is felt at all by them, it is, that he will stand up to what he has said, and carry out his policy.

But we are more concerned, at present, that Mr. Jones and his fellow Union men, both old Whigs and old Democrats, will stand up to their own hitherto avowed principles. The only danger to the country, at present, will arise from the utter backing down of old Democrats and Whigs from their time-honored principles and sworn pledges.

Mr. Jones says in his prospectus of the Pioneer, speaking of its course, "it will cheerfully and earnestly support the National Government in its rightful authority and power in maintaining and sustaining itself from all enemies from within or without, but will contend against any encroachments upon the reserved rights of the States."

After such a declaration, can Mr. Jones, or any of his former or present political associates, vote for the Howard Constitutional amendment? A scheme which so utterly denudes the States of all rights, can they vote for it?

Judge Howard's Speech.

We surrender a portion of our space, to-day, to the speech of Judge Howard, upon the question of the Basis of Representation. Judge H. presents his views with great clearness and force, and his remarks will doubtless be read with interest.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS.—We are requested by Mrs. Mary B. Clarke to announce the receipt of $70, forwarded by Mrs. Virginia L. Cohoon, of Elizabeth City, through her, to the Stonewall Cemetery Association, at Winchester. Thus nobly progresses the pious work in our good old State.

"The Prison Life of Jefferson Davis."

The Diary of Post Surgeon Craven, the medical attendant of Ex-President Davis for the first seven months of his prison life, has just been published, and will be read with intense avidity both on this and the other continent.

The papers, generally, throughout the country, are giving copious extracts from this most remarkable book. We have space, to-day, for only one, but may give others hereafter.

The plain, simple, unadorned record of Dr. Craven sustains and corroborates the terrible report of his successor in office, Dr. Cooper.

While it is gratifying to know that, since the report of the latter, the rigors of Mr. Davis' prison-life have been considerably mitigated, it is difficult to conceive that any man,—any State prisoner, representing a cause of the magnitude for which Mr. Davis is called upon to suffer,—could have been the victim of such horrible brutality as marked the earlier stages of his confinement.

Such recitals as that which we subjoin,—and which is but one out of many,—recall the picture which the historian has left us of the terrible prison-hours of the hapless Louis XVI.

STANTON'S IRONS.

On the morning of the 23rd. of May, a yet bitterer trial was in store for the proud spirit,—a trial severer, probably, than has ever in modern times been inflicted upon any one who had enjoyed such eminence. This morning Jefferson Davis was shackled.

It was while all the swarming camps of the armies of the Potomac, the Tennessee and Georgia,—over two hundred thousand bronzed and laurelled veterans,—were preparing for the Grand Review of the next morning, in which, passing in endless succession before the mansion of the President, the conquering military power of the nation was to lay down its arms at the feet of civil authority, that the following scene was enacted at Fort Monroe:

Capt. Jerome E. Titlow, of the Third Pennsylvania Artillery, entered the prisoner's cell followed by the blacksmith of the fort and his assistant, the latter carrying in his hands some heavy and harshly-rattling shackles. As they entered, Mr. Davis was reclining on his bed, feverish and weary after a sleepless night, the food placed near to him the preceding day still lying untouched on its tin plate near his bedside.

"Well!" said Mr. Davis as they entered, slightly raising his head.

"I have an unpleasant duty to perform, sir," said Captain Titlow; and as he spoke the senior blacksmith took the shackles from his assistant.

Davis leaped instantly from his recumbent attitude, a flush passing over his face for a moment, and then his countenance growing livid and rigid as death.

He gasped for breath, clutching his throat with the thin fingers of his right hand, and then recovering himself slowly, while his wasted figure towered up to its full height—now appearing to swell with indignation and then to shrink with terror, as he glanced from the captain's face to the shackles—he said slowly and with a laboring chest:

"My God! You cannot have been sent to iron me?"

"Such are my orders, sir," replied the officer, beckoning the blacksmith to approach, who stepped forward, unlocking the padlock and preparing the fetters to do their office. These fetters were of heavy iron, probably five-eighths of an inch in thickness, and connected together by a chain of like weight. I believe they are now in the possession of Major-General Miles, and will form an interesting relic.

"This is too monstrous," groaned the prisoner, glaring hurriedly round the room, as if for some weapon, or means of self destruction. "I demand, Captain, that you let me see the commanding officer. Can he pretend that such shackles are required to secure the safe custody of a weak old man, so guarded and in such a fort as this?"

"It could serve no purpose," replied Captain Titlow; "his orders are from Washington, as mine are from him."

"But he can telegraph," interposed Mr. Davis, eagerly; "there may be some mistake. No such outrage as you threaten me with is on record in the history of nations. Beg him to telegraph, and delay until he answers."

"My orders are peremptory," said the officer, "and admit of no delay. For your own sake, let me advise you to submit with patience. As a soldier, Mr. Davis, you know I must execute orders."

"These are not orders for a soldier," shouted the prisoner, losing all control of himself.—"They are orders for a jailer—for a hangman, which no soldier wearing a sword should accept! I tell you the world will ring with this disgrace. The war is over, the South is conquered; I have no longer any country but America, and it is for the honor of America, as for my own honor and life, that I plead against this degradation. "Kill me! kill me!" he cried, passionately, throwing his arms wide open and exposing his breast, "rather than inflict on me, and on my people, through me, this insult worse than death."

"Do your duty, blacksmith," said the officer, walking towards the embrasure as if not caring to witness the performance. "It only gives increased pain on all sides to protract this interview."

At these words the blacksmith advanced with the shackles, and seeing that the prisoner had one foot upon the chair near his bedside, his right hand resting on the back of it, the brawny mechanic made an attempt to slip one of the shackles over the ankle so raised, but, as if with the vehemence and strength which frenzy can impart, even to the weakest invalid, Mr. Davis suddenly seized his assailant and hurled him half-way across the room.

On this Captain Titlow turned, and, seeing that Davis had backed against the wall for further resistance, began to remonstrate, pointing out in brief, clear language, that this course was madness, and that orders must be enforced at any cost. "Why compel me," he said, "to add the further indignity of personal violence to the necessity of your being ironed."

"I am a prisoner of war," fiercely retorted Davis; "I have been a soldier in the armies of America, and know how to die. Only kill me, and my last breath shall be a blessing on your head. But while I have life and strength to resist, for myself and for my people, this thing shall not be done."

Hereupon Captain Titlow called in a sergeant and file of soldiers from the next room, and the sergeant advanced to seize the prisoner. Immediately Mr. Davis flew on him, seized his musket and attempted to wrench it from his grasp.

Of course such a scene could have but one issue. There was a short, passionate scuffle. In a moment Davis was flung upon his bed, and before his four powerful assailants removed their hands from him, the blacksmith and his assistant had done their work—one securing the rivet on the right ankle, while the other turned the key on the padlock on the left.

This done, Mr. Davis lay for a moment as if in a stupor. Then slowly raising himself and turning round, he dropped his shackled feet to the floor. The harsh clank of the striking chain seems first to have recalled him to his situation, and dropping his face into his hands, he burst into a passionate flood of sobbing, rocking to and fro, and muttering at brief intervals: "Oh, the shame, the shame!"

For the Sentinel.

Ladies of North Carolina.

It is well known that his Ex Provisional Excellency, W. W. Holden, during the late bloody contest, urged upon the men of the South the most vigorous prosecution of the war. It is not known, generally, that he also urged the ladies forward in the same course, by introducing a resolution in the Convention of North Carolina, on the 13th May 1862, which on that day passed unanimously, as appears from the Journal, pages 108 and 109. The resolution is in these words:

"Resolved unanimously by the Convention, That the thanks of the people of North Carolina are due, and are hereby tendered, to the ladies of the State for the contributions which they have made to the Confederate cause, and for the patriotic ardor which they have exhibited in behalf of the country in the prosecution of the war."

Our fair countrywomen have been sometimes censured by the Northern people for too much of war feeling. If they have rendered themselves justly obnoxious to reproach, by reason of their conduct in this particular, it may not be amiss to refresh the recollection of the public as to who it was that encouraged them to pursue a course of zeal and activity in the matter.

A FRIEND OF THE LADIES.

STATE CONVENTION.

ADJOURNED SESSION.

WEDNESDAY, June 20th. 1866.

Mr. Grissom introduced a resolution that the sessions of the Convention commence at 8 o'clock A. M., that a recess be taken at 2 o'clock P. M. and the Convention reassemble at 4 o'clock P. M., the resolution to go into effect immediately. This resolution was adopted under a suspension of the rules.

An ordinance to incorporate the Wilmington Railroad Bridge Company passed its several readings.

Mr. Wright, from the committee on Finance, reported an ordinance authorizing the County Courts to borrow money in certain cases. Ordered to be printed.

The Convention proceeded to consider the ordinance to limit the action of the Railroad Companies, on its second reading.

Mr. Settle addressed the Convention in support of the ordinance. He adverted to the unjust monopolies created by contracts between the railroads and Express Companies—the exorbitant rates charged by the latter for the transportation of Express freights under these exclusive, oppressive contracts, &c.

The ordinance was amended, on motion of Mr. Moore, of Wake, by a provision subjecting it to modification or repeal by the Legislature.

Mr. Ward advocated the measure, and characterized the existing Express monopolies as violations of the railroad charter, and gross impositions upon the public.

Messrs. Boyden, Moore, of Wake, and Caldwell, of Burke, opposed the ordinance and defended the action of the railroads.

Messrs. Conigland and McIvor also opposed the ordinance, and on motion of the latter it was laid on the table, as follows:

AYES.—Messrs. Adams, Alexander, Bagley, Baker, Barrow, Berry, Bingham, Boyden, Bryan, Burgin, Buxton, Caldwell, of Burke, Dick, Dickey, Eaton, Ellis, Faircloth, Furches, Garland, Garrett, Gilliam, Henry, King, Lash, McDonald, of Moore, McGehee, McIvor, N. A. McLean, Nat. McLean, McLaughlin, Moore, of Wake, Norfleet, Odom, Patterson, Phillips, Rush, Satterthwaite, Sloan, Smith, of Anson, Smith, of Wilkes, Starbuck, Stephenson, Walkup, Warren, Wilson, Winston and Wright.—47.

NAYS.—Messrs. Allen, Baines, Bradley, Brickell, Bynum, Caldwell, of Guilford, Clark, Cowper, Faulkner, Ferebee, Foy, Gahagan, Grissom, Harris, of Rutherford, Harrison, Haynes, Hodge, Howard, Jackson, Jones, of Davidson, Jones, of Henderson, Joyner, Logan, Love, of Jackson, Lyon, Manly, McCauley, McCorkle, McKoy, of Sampson, McKay, of Harnett, McRae, Moore, of Chatham, Murphy, Pearsall, Perkins, Person, Polk, Richardson, Rumley, Settle, Smith, of Johnston, Spencer, of Hyde, Spencer, of Montgomery, Stewart, Swan, Ward, Willey and Winburne.—48.

[If the vote, as above reported, be correct, it would appear that the nays, and not the yeas, prevailed.—EDS.]

The Convention proceeded to a further consideration of the amended Constitution.

The question recurring on the amendment of Mr. Settle, to sec. 4, of art. V. that no person holding office in any Bank or Railroad shall be entitled to a seat in the General Assembly, Mr. Bynum offered a substitute therefor, excluding from seats in the General Assembly salaried officers of such corporations in which the State holds stock.

Mr. Caldwell, of Burke, moved to amend the substitute by adding a provision excluding Stockholders in such corporations who hold stock to the value of $1,000.

These amendments were consecutively rejected.

Mr. Moore, of Wake, offered, as an additional sec. to art. 2, a digest of the ordinance in relation to debts of the State to be hereafter created. (Ordains that bills appropriating public money and raising revenue be read in each House of the General Assembly, on three several days; the yeas and nays to be had on each reading, the vote of a majority of all the members of each House being essential to their passage.)

Mr. Love, of Jackson, moved to amend by providing that it shall not apply to appropriations for works of internal improvement heretofore chartered, and in process of construction. Rejected, yeas 25, nays 63.

Mr. Furches moved to amend the amendment by substituting therefor the ordinance in relation to debts of the State to be hereafter created, in the words in which it passed its second reading.

Pending the consideration of this amendment, a message was received from his Excellency, Governor Worth, relative to the destitution existing in certain Western counties, which was referred to the committee on Finance.

The Convention took recess until 4 o'clock P. M.

A letter from Lexington, Va., to the Baltimore Sun, says General Lee is in all respects a real, active, working and most efficient President.—Besides attending to the general interests and administration of the institution, he visits, from time to time, the different lecture rooms, attends recitations, and receives weekly reports of the standing and progress of all the students in the several schools, &c. I have been informed, by good authority, that the General keeps such constant and attentive supervision over the affairs of the college, that he is always familiar with the relative standing in his classes held by each of the one hundred and fifty students now in attendance.

The Prussian army consists of 452 battallions of infantry, 320 squadrons of cavalry, and 1,086 pieces of artillery.

REMARKS OF MR. HOWARD,

OF EDGECOMBE,

In Convention, June 16th, on the proposed change in the Basis of Representation.

MR. PRESIDENT:—A few days ago, when we had what delegates are pleased to call a "love feast" over what they considered a just and fair compromise of this question, feeling that it would be useless to attempt to stem the commingled tide of Eastern and Western influence, and thinking that in a few moments a vote would place the terms of the adjustment on record, I arose simply to enter my protest against it either as a compromise or as embodying the true principles of sound conservative government. I should have been content with this simple expression of my dissent, had the matter proceeded to its consummation. But it did not, and as I find the Convention disengaged, while the delegates from Lincoln and Orange are settling the details of this "treaty of amity and peace," I hope I shall be pardoned for setting forth the considerations which shall influence my vote.

Before doing so, however, I will candidly admit that when I first came to this city, and before I had fully investigated and well considered this question, I did express to Eastern delegates a probable willingness to accept the provision about to be adopted. And I will also state, that I still believe, that the West, under the new apportionment of power, will be incapable of inflicting wrong upon the East, except by the desertion of her own representatives induced by the honors or emoluments of office.

Were this, then, a simple matter of State policy, I would add nothing more; but in my opinion it is not only no compromise, but the unjust disturbance of a compromise, not only a desertion of the great, conservative principles of government, but a rejection of every principle upon which a just, a fair, a successful resistance can be made to radicalism.

Before the Convention of 1835, there was much agitation in this State upon this subject, and justly so. The Convention met, and after mature consideration, by mutual concession effected a compromise. Considered as a mere distribution of power between sections, a compromise wise and just, for it gave to each section a branch of the General Assembly. Either was powerless for aggression on the rights of the other; both must evince kindness and good will to effect the many objects of legislation—a majority of numbers and a majority of interest must concur. This was a compromise indeed, in substance as well as name; but it was much more than a compromise. It was a perfect embodiment of the highest, conservative principles of representative republican government. Let us examine its principles. The Senate was based on taxation, the Commons on population. Adopting the well considered and established division of the political character of the slaves—a class combining the rights of persons and property—they were allowed representation as population, three-fifths, as property two-fifths—while every freeman or freedman was fully represented.

The rights of person and the rights of property are the two great interests of society. The government which affords the surest protection to both is that which is most entitled to the admiration, the love, and adoption of mankind.—Disregard the rights of persons and the popular heart swells with discontent until physical power upheaves the foundations of the social and political fabric. Disregard the rights of property and that "equality" which the delegate from Lincoln seems approvingly to evoke, shakes its red cap in the face of authority and tramples beneath its desecrating tread every material interest which man has enshrined in his heart and consecrated by his affections. The distribution of constitutional power should harmonize and protect all. This is true conservatism, and most happily is it adjusted in our present Constitution. Yet founded in justice, approved by experience, binding as a compact of compromise, it is proposed now, when every Southern voice should be raised for the sacredness of constitutions, to abrogate and annul it; and for what?

Mr. President, let us examine the proposition of the delegate from Lincoln. Analyse and view it. It is monstrous. Insert it in the Constitution and it amounts to this—the negroes shall have no power, either primary or delegated—the whites shall constitute a Democracy; and the will of the numerical majority shall be the law of the land. Not a check with which to defend the rights of a minority or the rights of property—an absolute negation of the essential purpose of constitutions. Well might the delegate from Halifax say, they dare not adopt it if they could.

Constitutions are not, except in a delegated government, to confer power but to restrain it. Without Constitutions the majority rule. Such are the purely Democratic governments of history. I hoped that such governments at this day found no advocates, save among the reckless, the bankrupt or the revolutionary. The delegate from Lincoln is far from either, and yet he utters such sentiments as these: "Why should property be less secure or justice worse administered when confided to the majority of the people of the whole State?" "Our government is based upon faith in majorities." The context shows that he speaks of numerical majorities. He can find no such sentences among the writings of the recognized statesmen of modern times; and I am sure they accord not with the settled convictions of the delegate himself. The able manner in which he has discussed this question shows too clearly that he is too wise and I know he is too conservative to desire the adoption of such principles. What is it but the rejection of all Constitutions? Yet the pride and boast of our land have been that those embodiments of checks and balances in the exercise of power have wielded an influence more conservative of the rights of minorities and property, more powerful to prevent the wrongs which passion, or prejudice, or mistaught philanthropy or unchecked fanaticism could inflict, than all the "pomp and circumstance" and authority of royalty. And to-day we stand powerless, unprotected, beneath the impending wrath of a numerical majority, if this shield held by a powerful hand, nerved by indomitable will, is stricken from above us.—Our only help now is in God and the broad, fundamental, constitutional principles of justice and right established by our fathers.

But, Mr. President, I did not arise to reply to the delegate from Lincoln. This has been most happily done by my friend from Halifax, with the marked ability which he always displays, and with that thoroughness and close adherence to principle which dispense with the necessity of an ally.

I will now consider this compromise; but before doing so, I would call the attention of the Convention to one fact which has been overlooked,—the effects of the abolition of slavery. Gentlemen say the West is dissatisfied. Little has been heard of this dissatisfaction. With full control of one branch of the Assembly, she could only be dissatisfied about the Senate. If so, has not the abolition of slavery already effected a most happy compromise. The East will loose much of her preponderance. It is true she will weaken somewhat the preponderance of the West in the Commons, but will not this tend to equalize power? Will it not also have the effect of giving to the middle counties a controlling influence? Will it not create three powers as it were, adding thus to the conservatism and increasing the chances of a sound and stable government? If this is a mere distribution of power, the march of events has already effected a just compromise. And with what show of justice can you disturb it? If the East has lost her power in the Senate, secured in 1835, as a final adjustment, by accident, how can you fairly deprive her of that which she gains by the same event? How without shame can you take from her not only what she has gained but also deprive her of much of the little she formerly had? A compromise indeed! The East loses much by abolition, in the Senate,—in her weakened condition she is required to give all she gains in the Commons by that event and one-third of what she had before.—The West gains much in the Senate,—in her new position of strength, in the mere accidental exercise of power, regardless of former Constitutional compromise, she takes from the East what she gains in the Commons and much of what power she had before. One gives all,—the other takes all. Strange compromise!! But it is said the West has the power here and can take all and therefore she is magnanimous in this arrangement. Were this so would it release her from her plighted faith of 1835? But it is not. Facts are stubborn things. The West demanded the white basis entire, the proposition so ably argued by the delegate from Lincoln, and fought for so long as there was hope. She demanded the proposition of the delegate from Jackson, white basis in the Commons, and mixed basis in the Senate, and fought it, until defeated by a decisive vote. This was all that was left. She proposed to call it a compromise!!! and took it without a struggle,—it was tossed in her lap by Eastern members. I blame not the Western delegates, viewing it as a mere matter of State policy. He who stands firmly by his own people always commands my respect.

But, Mr. President, this is not a question of mere State policy. It is not even a mere question of policy. It is a matter of principle. In one particular I concede to it correct principle. It gives to property proper representation. But, sir, it contains two fatal errors—unjust in principle and perfectly suicidal to us. That representation is dependent on suffrage, and that taxation is not dependent on representation. Is not this so? The delegate from Lincoln says "the right of suffrage being denied the negro, he cannot justly be represented." Here the first principle is announced, and with a conclusion that once admitted, shuts the mouth of every Southern man. No one would exempt the negro from taxation. Is he represented? It may be said he is in the Senate, but this is not true. A poll tax is paid for the protection of personal rights, and always exercises its power and claims its representation in the body representing persons. It must be in proportion to population, and therefore diminishes rather than increases the power of the body representing taxation as contradistinguished from persons.

The true principles of good government are exactly the reverse of these two principles, thus embodied in this settlement. Representation is not dependent on suffrage. The rights and the interests of a community are so blended, so dependent each on the other for mutual prosperity, that the interests of each may well be represented without universal suffrage, and the fair adjustment of the right of suffrage is a matter of convention; and in an agricultural community like ours, where land is so plentiful and labor so scarce, the interests of the employer and employee, of capital and labor, are harmonious, and the rights of the one class will be as faithfully maintained as the rights of the other. I cannot foresee what time may develop, but I doubt not that interest will accede to, aye, that interest will demand, whatever is just, whatever is right, according to the fundamental principles of sound, republican representative government.

And of these fundamental principles there is one that the American people will surely return to and abide by. Taxation without representation is tyranny. Where, I ask, do the friends of this settlement propose to take their stand? They cannot forego taxation—the "white population" will not submit to that.—Taxation without representation?—they cannot face that. Representation demands suffrage.—They propose to vote that. How, I ask, will they defend us? How can they sustain us in any contest with radicalism? How can they ask our proper representation in Congress without granting universal suffrage? I appeal to the delegates from the Eastern, the Middle, and the Western Counties to pause before they consummate this deed—to pause before they deprive us of every plank of reason, or justice, or principle on which we now stand.

But the delegate from Guilford says the rejection of this will cause a mighty agitation.—I am sure that he is mistaken. On the other hand adopt it, and you will inaugurate an agitation much more powerful, much more uncontrollable. Sir, the negroes are in Eastern Carolina, and must remain for years. The peace, the prosperity of our section depend on the cultivation, on our part, of the best and kindest relations. Their interests are our interests, their welfare our prosperity, and whenever permitted, we will show to them and the world that whatever justice, right, or a common interest demands, they shall have.

OUR DEAD IN BALTIMORE.—A letter from Baltimore, speaking of the late strawberry festival, gotten up by the ladies of that city for the benefit of the Southern poor, has the following paragraph:

"A number of beautiful bouquets from North Carolina and from Church Hill, Richmond, came one day too late; and on the evening of the days on which they were received I accompanied some friends who have charge of several graves of Confederate soldiers in our beautiful Greenmount Cemetery, and they decorated their last resting places with them. One grave, in which reposed the bodies of three North Carolina soldiers who fell together at Gettysburg, was covered with floral tributes from their own loved State. A careless passer-by would have little thought that a stranger's hand had laid them there."

The Johnson victory in Nebraska seems to lack no element of completeness. The returns of the election are not all in, but enough to show that "State" has been carried; that probably Morton (Democrat) and the whole ticket is elected, and the Legislature is about equal. When it is remembered that this has been an abolition Territory, and the last delegate was elected over Miller (Democrat,) two years ago, by about 1000 majority, you can appreciate the wonderful change of sentiment," says a letter to the New York Express.

THE WHEAT CROP.—Recent advices from all sections of this State authorize the announcement that the wheat crop now being harvested, though short as to quantity, will prove superior in quality to the crop of any previous year since the beginning of the late war; and we consider it altogether probable it will command a price satisfactory even to the farmers themselves.—Richmond Times.

CITY AND STATE ITEMS.

TRINITY COLLEGE.—The Annual Commencement of this honored institution took place on the 14th inst. We had hoped that some one, who was present, would have favored us with an account of the exercises upon the occasion. As it is, we gather a few particulars from a short communication to the Salisbury Banner.

On the evening of the 13th, there was declamation by the students, which is described as having been very creditable.

On the forenoon of the 14th, a dozen or more students delivered original speeches, among which were the Salutatory and the Valedictory, both of which elicited much applause. Among the addresses was one on "Stonewall Jackson," delivered by a crippled soldier, who ascended the rostrum on his crutches. His appearance on the stage, thus disabled, deeply touched the sympathies of the audience.

In the afternoon, Gov. Vance, by request, repeated the address delivered at the University the preceding week. Gov. Worth, also, who was present, made a short address, complimentary to the institution.

Dr. Craven, the energetic President of the Faculty, then announced the close of the exercises of the annual festival, adding that his prospects for the future were growing brighter. We trust that the fondest wishes and expectations of the friends of the institution may all be fully realized.

ST. MARY'S SCHOOL.—The Charlotte Times pays the following just and merited compliment to this excellent Seminary. We presume that there are but few superior in the country. Certainly none have sent out a brighter array of educated and refined women:

"Among the school advertisements found in our columns, we desire particularly to call the attention of those interested to that of the Rev. Dr. Aldert Smedes, at Raleigh. We have been familiar with many of his former pupils, as many of our relatives and friends were educated there, and bear witness with pleasure to the thoroughness of the system pursued, and the grace, refinements and elegance of manners that a young lady is almost sure to acquire by a residence there. Among the various seminaries that adorn our country, this takes high rank, in all that constitutes a true and valuable education. Dr. Smedes is a highly gifted and genial christian gentleman, and is peculiarly fitted to impart instruction, and have control of delicate and well-bred young ladies, and his pupils always show brightly in the social circle.—Some of the most fascinating and elegant women in this and other States owe their training and success in life to him. While this school was established under the auspices of the Episcopal Church, leading families of all denominations have sought admittance there for their daughters, and had them returned to them improved in mind and accomplished in manners. It may be well to state for the satisfaction of those who desire to place their daughters at a first class institution, that Dr. Smedes' school has not only received the warm commendation of nearly all the Southern Bishops, but that Gen. R E. Lee had one of his daughters educated there."

FIRST COTTON BLOOM.—The Newbern Commercial is in receipt of a note from Mr. W. P. Canaday, Newport, N. C., dated 18th inst., inclosing a fully developed cotton bloom, the first of the season. It is from the plantation of Mr. George Dennis, on Broad Creek, Bogue Sound, and we are informed, says the Commercial, that he has a quantity of them. If this is not early for cotton blooms, we do not know the meaning of the word. Can any of our friends beat it?

ASHEVILLE.—They are not to have license, in Asheville, for the next twelve months, to sell the "critter." At a late election upon the question, the vote stood "No License" 42; "License," 6.

THE HILLSBORO' Recorder is requested to say that the Hon. S. F. Phillips will, under no circumstances, be a candidate for the Legislature from the County of Orange.

HOMICIDE.—Mr. Daniel Moyer, a citizen of Salisbury, was shot and killed, on Sunday last, in Mocksville, by Mr. Buckrod Parker. The facts are not given. Parker has been arrested and committed to jail.

Colonel Roberts, President of the Fenian Brotherhood, and James Stephens, C. O. I. R. are in Washington. Roberts has had several interviews with prominent members of Congress on the subject of the repeal of the neutrality laws, and it is said that they have expressed warm sympathy for the cause he represents. Stephens, on the other hand, is working for the good of the cause in Ireland, and many of the Sweeny Fenians have visited him since the failure of the Canadian invasion, and are now advocating direct assistance to the men in the old country.

Flowers cost us nothing in the South, and there is no widow or orphan in our land who begrudges the labor or time spent in honoring the memories of their loved ones. If we had the means we would not stop with flowers; we would place a pile like that of Bunker Hill over the grave of every hero who fought and bled for us—no less cherished because he fought and died in vain.

There can be no impropriety in stating that the government at Washington is using its influence on behalf of the Fenian prisoners in the hands of the Canadians, and with a gratifying prospect of success.

Express Companies.

The consolidation of the national bankers' express with the three leading express companies of this country, has, it is understood, been finally satisfactorily arranged. In other words, the three great express companies which, until recently, enjoyed absolute monopolies of the express business, each in its allotted district, have now combined for the purpose of exercising an united monopoly, and have given the national banker's express one fifth interest in order to prevent competition. For this the sum of $5,000,000 was to be paid, the American express contributing its stock at $6,000,000, the United States express putting in its stock at $5,000,000, and the Adams express valuing its stock at $9,000,000. By this arrangement the shareholders of the Adams company received two and a half shares of new for each share of old stock, in addition to which there remained from the large profits of the business a very considerable surplus of property and cash to be divided hereafter.

The business of these express companies has, it must be acknowledged, been admirably managed—for themselves. Their policy has been always carefully to avoid antagonism. No new company was allowed to become formidable. If it did not become formidable, a section of country was allotted to it, in which it was allowed to enjoy its monopoly undisturbed. In this way the express business of the country had fallen entirely into the hands of the American, the United States, and the Adams. The two first divided the business of the north and west, while Adams' express, originally a New England organization, confined itself chiefly to New England, the Middle and Southern states. For years no one has been allowed to compete with them, and less powerful corporations have been crushed out, absorbed or purchased. Just as Harden's express is in reality a branch of Adams'; just as the Southern express was, and is still, a branch of the same concern, and just as the Merchants' express and transportation company is an offshoot of it, so, in fact, are all the minor express companies of the country either branches or offshoots of some of the great concerns. The express business has been an exclusive monopoly, which has been ever since its creation strengthened and confirmed by the immense profits which these companies have realized as monopolies. The large amount of capital they have been enabled to retain as a reserve fund, after the payment of large dividends, has placed them in a position to wield a powerful influence, and by loans of money and advances made to railroads, they have been able to purchase exclusive privileges from many roads, so as to entirely prevent competition. The ramifications of the power of these companies is not confined to any district. It extends from New England to the Gulf of Mexico. In some instances roads have been leased to secure absolute control, and in other instances the same result has been accomplished by other means. Before the consolidation of these northern expresses, Adams Express had obtained privileges from the Camden and Amboy railroad which were exclusive. While privileges, similar to those enjoyed by this express, can be obtained from some railroads by the payment of large sums and the guaranty of a very heavy business, over the Camden and Amboy railroad none at all are granted. No proposals are listened to. And as this railroad is itself a monopoly, and no freight or passengers can be carried between New York and Philadelphia, except by its consent, it has virtually stoped all competitive express business between these two cities. Fortunately, it is not the only link between New York and Baltimore.

It will be readily understood that such a condition of things is anything but beneficial to the public at large. Fair and well regulated competion is always beneficial, and the experience of every day shows that, when not over done, it leads to an increase of business, and not to a decrease of profits. It only needs competition to develop it properly. As the facilities of business are enlarged, from time to time, by competition, the increasing desire daily manifested to depend more exclusively on express companies will become more general among shippers, while railroad companies will grant additional facilities and accomodations, at lower rates for the purpose of inducing express companies to relelve the railroads of all trouble and all responsibility for damage or loss. The railroads, in fact, will devote themselves to the transportation of bulk, while the express companies will attend to the details. A division of labor will thus be arrived at by which all will be enabled to work economically for themselves and advantageously to the shipper.

Two new express companies have recently been organized. The merchants' Union, a wealthy corporation, will confine itself chiefly to the Northern States. The National Express and Transportation Company will probably confine itself principally to the Border and Southern States. The former company will not commence operations until August, by which time it will have perfected its arrangements and opened its routes. The latter company, after months of weary and costly struggle, has finally triumphed over the obstacles that hampered its career, and established connections over the most important roads. Each of these companies is too independent to be bought up by the great Northern monopoly. They have entered into the arena fairly for the purpose of developing the legitimate express business of the country. The general stagnation which has prevailed in trade for some time past, and which must continue until harvest, does not afford any well-grounded hope of an immediate change of system; but before many months we shall probably have express company trains inaugurated on the great railway lines, and see the cars of leading rival companies carried along simultaneously over the same routes, filled to repletion, each company doing an active business, and dependent for its custom, not upon a dictatorial monopoly, but upon the facilities, dispatch, and cheapness it offers to the public.

Some forty Republican Congressmen have written a letter to Governor Brownlow, asking him to convene the Tennessee Legislature to ratify the Constitutional amendment, which has finally passed Congress. If ratified, an intimation is held out that the Tennessee delegation will be at once admitted in Congress.

"I wish you would pay a little attention to what I am saying, sir," roared an irate lawyer at an exasperated witness. "Well, I am paying as little as I can," was the calm reply.

"I say, Jim," says one friend to another on meeting, "I hear that our friend A. has been in the oil speculation heavily; has he made anything?" "Yes," says Jim, "he has made an assignment."

AN INHABITANT OF A FLORIDA CYPRESS SWAMP.—A correspondent of the Lynn (Mass.) Reporter writes from Savannah, Georgia, that a man in Florida came into Lake City from the woods the other day, and having heard some one speak of Lee's surrender, could not be made to believe it. "No," said he, "I hearn tell, a right smart spell ago, that the Yanks had got Richmond, but as for old Bob Lee's surrendering, he haint done no such a thing. He haint the boy for that, for I've been in his army once myself, and I know him. He won't do it."

Rogers, of New Jersey, presented the minority report of the committee on Reconstruction. It is a long document, consisting of an elaborate argument in favor of the President's policy and the immediate admission of the South to representation. It takes the ground that a State can neither withdraw nor be expelled from the Union. The war was to preserve, not to destroy, the States. The report concludes with a eulogy upon the purity of the motives of the President.

The remainder of the session was occupied in the consideration of the new Army Bill.

A NEW AND GRAND EPOCH IN MEDICINE!

DR. MAGGIEL is the founder of a new Medical System! The quantitarians, whose vast internal doses enfeeble the stomach and paralyse the bowels, must give precedence to the man who restores health and appetite, with from one to two of his extraordinary Pills, and cures the most virulent sores with a box or so of his wonderful and all healing Salve. These two great specifics of the Doctor are fast superseding all the stereotyped nostrums of the day. Extraordinary cures by Maggiel's Pills and Salve have opened the eyes of the public to the inefficiency of the (so called) remedies of others, and upon which people have so long blindly depended. Maggiel's Pills are not of the class that are swallowed by the dozen, and of which every box fail taken creates an absolute necessity for another. One or two of Maggiel's Pills suffices to place the bowels in perfect order, tone the stomach, create an appetite, and render the spirits light and buoyant! There is no griping, and no reaction in the form of constipation. If the liver is affected, its functions are restored; and if the nervous system is feeble it is invigorated. This last quality makes the medicines very desirable for the wants of delicate females. Ulcerous and eruptive diseases are literally extinguished by the disenfectant power of Maggiel's Salve. In fact, it is here announced that Maggiel's Bilious, Dyspeptic and Diarrhea Pills cure where all others fail. While for Burns, Scalds, Chilblains, Cuts and all abrasions of the skin Maggiel's Salve is infallible. Sold by J. MAGGIEL, 49 Fulton Street, New York, and all Druggists, at 25 cts. per box. Sold by all Druggists in Raleigh.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

IS a concentrated extract of the choice root, so combined with other substances of still greater alterative power as to afford an effectual antidote for diseases Sarsaparilla is reputed to cure. Such a remedy is surely wanted by those who suffer from Strumous complaints, and that one which will accomplish their cure must prove, as this has, of immense service to this large class of our afflicted fellow citizens. How complete'y this compound will do it has been proven by experiment on many of the worst cases to be found in the following complaints:

Scrotula, Scrofulous Swellings and Sores, Skin Diseases, Pimples, Pustules, Blotches, Eruptions, St. Anthony's Fire, Rose or Erysipelas, Tetter or Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Ringworm, &c.

Syphilis or Venereal Disease is expelled from the system by the prolonged use of this Sarsaparilla, and the patient is left in comparative health.

Female Diseases are caused by Scrofula in the blood and are often cured by this Extract of Sarsaparilla.

Do not discard this invaluable medicine, because you have been imposed upon by something pretending to be Sarsaparilla, while it was not. When you have used Ayer's—then, and not till then, will you know the virtues of Sarsaparilla. For minute particulars of the diseases it cures, we refer you to Ayer's American Almanac, which the agents below named will furnish gratis to all who call for it.

AYER'S CATHARTIC PILLS, for the cure of Costiveness, Jaundice, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Dysentery, Foul Stomach, Headache, Piles, Rheumatism, Heartburn arising from Ill-ordered Stomach, Pain or Morbid Inaction of the Bowels, Flatulency, Loss of Appetite, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Worms, Gout, Neuralgia, and for a Dinner Pill.

They are sugar coated, so that the most sensitive can take them pleasantly, and they are the best Aperient in the world for all the purposes of a family physic.

Prepared by DR. J. C. AYER & Co., Lowell, Mass., and sold by Williams & Haywood, P. F. Pescud, Raleigh, N. C., and Dealers generally.

A BOON TO THE SICK.

AND

PILLS AND SALVE.

These Life-giving remedies are now given publicly to the world. For over a quarter of a century of private practice the ingredients in these

LIFE-GIVING PILLS!

Have been used with the greatest success. Their mission is not only to prevent disease, but to cure. They search out the various maladies by which the patient is suffering and re-invigorate the failing system. To the aged and infirm a few doses of these valuable PILLS will prove to be

A VERY FOUNTAIN OF YOUTH,

For in every case they add new life and vitality, and restore the waning energies to their pristine state.—To the young and middle-aged they will prove most invaluable, as a ready, specific and sterling medicine. Here is a dream realized, that Ponce-de Leon sought for three hundred years ago, and never found. He looked for a fountain that would restore the old to vigor and make youth ever

An Eternal Spring!

It was left for this day and hour to realize the dream, and show in one glorious fact, that magic that made it fair.

THESE FAMOUS REMEDIES

Cannot stay the flight of years, but they can force back and hold aloof, diseases that might triumph over the aged and the young. Let none hesitate then, but seize the favorable opportunity the offers. When taken as prescribed—

FOR BILLIOUS DISORDERS

Nothing can be more productive of cure than these Pills. Their almost magic influence is felt at once; and the usual concomitants of this most distressing disease are removed. These remedies are made from the purest

VEGETABLE COMPOUNDS.

They will not harm the most delicate female, and can be given with good effect in prescribed dose to the youngest babe.

FOR CUTANEOUS DISORDERS

And all eruptions of the skin, the SALVE is most invaluable. It does not heal externally alone, but penetrates with the most searching effects to the very root of the evil!

DR. MAGGIEL'S PILLS.

Invariably cure the following Diseases.

Asthma,
Bowel Complaints,
Coughs,
Colds,
Chest Diseases,
Costiveness,
Dyspepsia,
Diarrhœa,
Dropsy,
Debility,
Female Complaints,
Headache,
Indigestion,
Influenza,
Inflammation,
Inward weakness,
Liver Complaint,
Lowness of Spirits,
Ringworm,
Rheumatism,
Salt Rheum,
Scalds,
Skin Diseases.

Notice.—None genuine without the engraved trade mark around each pot or box, signed by DR. J. MAGGIEL, 43 Fulton st., New York, to counterfeit which is felony.

Sold by all respectable Dealers in Medicine throughout the United States and Canada—at 25 cents per box or pot.

A CARD.

Because of affliction and age which renders me incapable of continuing business, I now retire from the Book trade, leaving my entire stock and interest in the hands of Messrs. Branson and Farrer—except the publication of the "N. C. Almanac," which, I trust will be received with the same favor as heretofore.

In retiring, I return my sincere thanks for the very liberal patronage which the public has chosen to bestow upon me during the last half century—the length of time in which I have been engaged in the book trade in this State—and cheerfully recommend to my old friends and patrons, my successors, Messrs. Branson & Farrer, by whom, I am sure they will be satisfactorily accommodated.

Mr. H. D. Coley, so well known to the Book trade and to the public, and so long engaged in business with me will be retained as an assistant in business with Messrs Branson & Farrer. He invites his old friends to call upon him.

COTTON GINS,

MANUFACTURED BY

W. G. CLEMONS, BROWN & CO.,

COLUMBUS, GA.

WE have received the manufacture of Cotton Gins in this city, and will be prepared to fill orders by 1st June next. As we shall not be, as heretofore, represented by traveling agents, parties wishing our Gins, will confer a favor by sending in their orders at an early day. As owing to the demand, we shall be unable to keep a stock in the hands of our local agents, as it was our practice before the war. All business transactions being now reduced to cash, our sales will be made on the basis of ready pay.

Our Gins are too well known to require any special notice or commendation; we believe they are unrivalled in the chief points of excellence which go to make up a superior machine, namely: Speed light draught and good sample.

Our DOUBLE CYLINDER GINS will be found superior to the single cylinder, when parties have steam or good water power, to give them the necessary speed. In all cases when this can be done, we recommend them in preference to the single cylinder. If, however, indifferent or insufficient power is used, they will not do as well as the single Gin.

Messrs. DEROSSET & CO., Wilmington, N. C., are our general agents for the State of North Carolina.

W. G. CLEMONS, BROWN & CO.

Columbus, Ga., April 24 '66.

We will give prompt attention to orders for the above celebrated Gins from any part of the State. The price is five dollars ($5) per Saw at the Factory, and five dollars for each Gin will only be charged to purchasers for transportation to this point.
